These 2 hot rods belonged to my father who passed away 2 months ago. Great start to an already sad Fathers Day weekend. They were stolen Wednesday June 16, 2010 in the early hours of the morning (3-7am) from my mom's house in Jonesboro, GA just south of Atlanta. Appears the cars were taken using a repo style snatch truck that lifts cars by the wheels. Both cars are distinctive with the tubbed rearends and blower motors. Also the camaro would probably have the hood on which has a scoop that is almost as tall as the car is. 55's interior is gutted except the dash is painted royal blue. doubt the cars would be driven around, probably on a trailer, wrecker, or towed. Could possibly be a different color or already parted out thus the parts list.

A tilt car trailer was also stolen. Black, solid metal bed that tilts to load a car onto. 2" ball tongue. Two axles. Removeable fender on driver side. Dent on rear lip where they tried to load a forklift which was two
